

A small, black, rectangular network switch is mounted on the white interior wall of the desk. It has several ports on its front panel and a small green LED light is illuminated.

A standard white electrical power outlet is mounted on the white interior wall of the desk. It has two three-prong outlets and two two-prong outlets. A black power cord is plugged into one of the three-prong outlets.

An HP LaserJet 1320n printer is positioned on the right side of the desk. It is a compact, white and black device with a paper tray at the top and a paper output tray at the bottom. The HP logo and the model name "HP LaserJet 1320n" are visible on the front panel.

A bundle of black cables is connected to the network switch and other devices. The cables are somewhat disorganized and loop around the desk's interior.

Another bundle of black cables is connected to the power outlet and other devices. These cables also loop around the desk's interior.

A silver metal bracket or support piece is mounted on the right side of the wooden desk, likely used to hold a monitor or another device in place.
