Process Overview

In an effort to gain a deep understanding of Douglas County's strategic issues to be addressed and opportunities to be considered during the strategic planning process, OnStrategy conducted a variety of input-gathering methods for both internal and external stakeholders, including:

- One-on-one interviews with the Douglas County Internal Review Committee and the Board of County Commissioners
- An online community survey, open to the community
- (5) Stakeholder Focus Group Sessions
- (2) Public Input Sessions, open to the community

Details for each event are listed below. OnStrategy analyses and summarizes the input into this report.

Leadership & Board Interviews

Interviews were conducted one-on-one, via Zoom, with all County Commissioners (5) and select Douglas County leadership staff (4).

Participants

Board of County Commissioners

- Mark Gardner, Chairman, District 3
- Wesley Rice, Vice Chairman, District 4
- Sharla Hales, District 2
- Walt Nowosad, District 5
- Danny Tarkanian, District 1

Internal Review Committee

- Jenifer Davidson, County Manager
- Melissa Elges, Chief of Staff
- Teri Willoughby, Chief Finance Officer
- Daniel Johnson, Chief Technology Officer
- Wendy Lang, Human Resources Director

Board of County Commissioners

Outlook

Concise Overview

Areas of focus were managing the master development plan for a desired future reality, transportation infrastructure, county services buildings, flood plain preparedness, and workforce sustainability.

Detailed Summary

Key infrastructure issues have become increasingly evident, particularly concerning unmaintained and unsafe roads. This is especially acute in Ranchos, a densely populated area in need of improved infrastructure and transportation to access community resources. Collaboration with local experts has been ongoing to address flood water issues and insufficient parking at the lake. A new county manager has come on board to work on controlling new growth, in alignment with the community's Strategic Plan, which aims to prioritize key issues over individual agendas.

The current master plan has shown challenges in maintaining the area's rural character, prompting a court to overrule a recent community development for not being sustainable. This has led to a reevaluation of growth permits, now operating under an 80/20 'use it or lose it' model. There are options to purchase conservation rights to ensure open spaces are maintained. Alongside these needs are plans for thriving schools, robust healthcare facilities, effective law enforcement, and affordable housing. Financially, the Events Center projects $1.3 million in revenue and new initiatives like a Micro-transit plan with TRPA are underway. Infrastructure projects such as Vista Grande, Muller Parkway, and the Judicial Center are important.

Mission and Values

Concise Overview

The Current mission and values are good, and there exists opportunity to refresh and highlight current sentiment.

Detailed Summary

While the county has a solid foundation with its current mission and values, there's an opportunity for growth and improvement to be more specific. One of the key challenges is aligning public expectations with fiscal realities. The community desires top-notch amenities but is understandably cautious about tax increases. This presents an invigorating challenge to find innovative financial solutions that satisfy all parties involved.

Accountability is at the heart of any thriving community, and there's a compelling opportunity to strengthen this aspect of governance. By fortifying accountability measures, the county can not only mitigate concerns about liability but also foster a stronger sense of mutual trust and responsibility. The mission, aimed at meeting the needs of constituents, is well-intentioned and lays a strong foundation upon which to build.

As for the county's vision, it offers a blank canvas for stakeholders to inject more substance and specificity, making it an actionable guide for the future. Highlighting "respect" and "responsibility" as values can act as a catalyst for positive change, further enhancing the organization's culture and public image.

Communication, a cornerstone for community engagement, is already under review for enhancements. The focus will be on making details accessible and comprehensible, thus educating and informing the public more effectively (and simply). The county acknowledges the need for improved community trust and is committed to achieving buy-in from constituents.

Embracing leadership that balances comfort and courage could be the key to navigating these challenges successfully. With these improvements, the county is not just maintaining its existing positive elements but is also setting the stage for a future where governance aligns more closely with the needs and expectations of its people.

Strategic Issues

Concise Overview

The existing six areas of focus from the prior strategic plan are a good foundation, and yet follow through on infrastructure, local specifics and needs, organizational sustainability, and wise development are essential.

Detailed Summary

The county is proactively addressing a range of challenges and opportunities to better serve its residents. One pressing concern is flooding dangers, where preparation initiatives are already in place to ensure the safety of the community. There's a small but manageable hurdle concerning community development, with a "10% rule" given to staff as a guideline for what not to approve without commission oversight, offering a checks-and-balances approach to governance.

The JLEC Center, set to replace the current law enforcement building, has seen costs rise from an initial $22 million bid to $42 million. Although the cost escalation is significant, it's worth noting that the project will be funded through bonds and long-term debt, ensuring that the center meets contemporary standards for law enforcement facilities. Much like the present community center, it too would be a "jewel" in and for our county.

Open space and ranch preservation are high priorities, with a focus on "keeping our ranches ranching." The acknowledgment that once ranchers are gone, they're irreplaceable, adds a layer of urgency to conservation efforts. Valuing and contemplating all "voices" and "interests" among groups in these processes offers diverse perspectives, enriching the community dialogue.

There's also an eagerness to address national issues at the local level in Douglas, from housing affordability to transit solutions, particularly at the lake area. Plans for a New Judicial Center are underway, with attention also being paid to the environmental impact of activities like Painted Rock Quarry trucks.

Developments such as the sawmill on native lands behind Target and the Muller Parkway project are acknowledged. Similarly, road conditions in areas like Topaz Ranch Estates (TRE) are being evaluated for improvement.

The county acknowledges the six current strategic topics from the prior plan as good groundwork to build upon. Overall, despite facing several challenges, the county's proactive and balanced approach promises a future where these issues are not just addressed but turned into opportunities for community improvement and growth.

Community Trends

Concise Overview

There are recognized needs for workforce housing, recruitment and retention means, additionally, realities and implications of an older-aged population in the county, and infrastructure needs and desires for a growing population.

Detailed Summary

The organization is undergoing a period of transition, with several retirements and new hires. This shift necessitates a review of competitive compensation packages and infrastructure investment. Budget considerations are comprehensive, taking into account the broader community's needs while also focusing on talent retention strategies.

The existing growth management plan is being enforced, with no new projects approved in the last two years. About 6,000 projects have been earmarked for the next 20 years, indicating a long-term outlook. The demographic profile is changing, with a decrease in younger residents and an influx of an older, more affluent population, affecting housing prices (upwards). In response, affordable housing remains an ongoing concern.

Amenities such as ranches, an established workforce, and public services like schools and hospitals are notable community assets. Plans to consider more infill and increased density are under discussion. In terms of communication, efforts are being made to educate, enhance transparency and dialogue between the county government and the community.

Public participation is sought in various issues, including zoning. While there have been instances where board decisions diverged from limitedly known public sentiment, the focus remains on considering the broader community needs and evaluating the cost-to-usage ratios of proposed projects.

Issues such as vacation home rentals, traffic flow, and safety are also on the agenda. Projects like Painted Rock have economic implications and road usage challenges. The overall growth strategy aims for development in designated areas rather than unchecked expansion, with an eye on attracting diverse age demographics and correct business. The transition phase offers an opportunity for reassessment and planning across various domains.

Strategic Direction

Concise Overview

Themes given were maintaining a rural character while ensuring essential services, such as generating tax revenue and attracting businesses for economic growth. There's an emphasis on responsible land management to prevent unchecked expansion, taking accountability for past county mistakes, and prioritizing road safety and traffic management. A focus on long-term vision and inclusivity in decision-making is also evident. The community's existing assets like ranches, a workforce, law enforcement, schools, and hospitals are acknowledged, with a call for more infill and density.

Additionally, there's a strong emphasis on effective communication within the county government, involving volunteers, and following through on plans to accommodate growth, including improving traffic routes and expanding healthcare and community services.

Detailed Summary

The organization faces multiple challenges and opportunities as it seeks to balance a rural atmosphere with the provision of services. There is a need to generate a stable tax base, potentially supplemented by federal funding, to support community growth, for the business sector and to attract more enterprises. At the same time, there is an emphasis on restricting land use and managing growth with long-term sustainability in mind.

Road maintenance is a priority, involving 17 different GRDs, some of which overlap with state responsibilities. The objective is to ensure road safety and manage traffic effectively, in line with a long-term vision that takes into account the impact of today's decisions.

There is a responsibility of the board to act decisively and consider the broader community's needs rather than those of a specific subgroup. The county's existing amenities, which include ranches, a workforce, and essential public services like schools and hospitals, are viewed as assets that can be leveraged for future planning. Plans are also under review to consider more infill and increased density in development.

Improving communication processes is a target, with the aim for more transparent and regular dialogue between county government and residents. There is an open call for volunteers to participate in various county activities and provide services.

Additionally, various initiatives such as conservation easements, a potential 1/4 cent tax increase, and developments like the Muller Parkway project is an option, particularly with regards to their impact on traffic and other community concerns. Overall, the organization is in a phase of evaluation and planning, focusing on a balanced approach to growth, service provision, and community engagement.

County Priorities

Concise Overview

Ensuring sensible growth, communications with the public, economic reality education, and infrastructure delivery.

Detailed Summary

The organization is grappling with the need to educate the population about current financial realities, a crucial step given that 40% of the tax revenue is derived from tourism at S. Lake Tahoe. This points to the importance of educating the community and resource management to sustain public services and infrastructure. Further, the community should be updated about the state of the county to provide context for any questions or issues raised.

There is a level of discontent regarding how funds are allocated, particularly expenditures related to the Tahoe area. This suggests a need for increased public understanding of the tax structure and how expenses are managed.

Traffic remains a concern, especially on Route 395. The bypass road is still not completed, raising questions about long-term traffic management strategies.

Additional issues on the agenda include conservation easements, improved communications, a potential 1/4 cent tax increase, and the Muller Parkway project, especially concerning its impact on traffic. These are all topics that tie into the broader challenges of community engagement, financial management, and long-term planning. Overall, the organization is in a phase where public education and communication are as critical as policy decisions for aligning community expectations with county actions.

Your Legacy

Concise Overview

To be available, understanding, responsible, and kind.

Detailed Summary

The organization is committed to transparency and accessibility, working to maximize communications to keep the community informed. While commissioners are open to listening to community needs, the managerial level is identified as the appropriate channel for certain actions. There is an organizational encouragement for critical thinking, where tough questions are welcome.

Any proposals for increases in taxation will be subject to a community vote, reflecting the organization's approach to decision-making. Road issues are recognized as an area requiring attention. There is also a commitment to maintain oversight of the master plan and county codes to guide development decisions, including in the South Shore area.

Overall, the emphasis is on balanced communication, where listening is considered as important as speaking, in the management of community affairs; respect and attentiveness.

Open Comment

Concise Overview

We need to communicate as much as possible with the community.

Detailed Summary

The board recognizes the need for a new Judicial Center, emphasizing the importance of communication to garner support for its funding, given its role in ensuring access to justice and adequate working spaces for employees. The county has already purchased land for this purpose.

Optimism is expressed for good public attendance at upcoming public meetings. Additionally, it is recognized that to retain and attract skilled and adequate staff, compensation packages for county employees must be excellent (and in light of housing costs).

Internal Review Committee

Challenges

Concise Overview

Recruiting, hiring, and retaining staff, along with ongoing relationship, communication and trust by the community at large.

Detailed Summary

Addressing staffing, compensation, and retention challenges is a top priority within the organization, with the current workplace culture scoring 3 out of 5, indicating room for improvement. Despite annual 2% Cost of Living Adjustments (COLA) since 2017, compensation rates established in 2015 have not kept pace with the Northern Nevada Region's public and private sectors. A State and Local Government Workforce Survey highlighted difficulties in recruiting and retaining talent, particularly in fields like health care, corrections, policing, skilled trades, and engineering. Douglas County faces similar challenges, including recruiting for various positions due to labor market conditions. Private sector employers in the region report intense wage pressure with more job openings than applicants. Declining interest in County positions and a consistent 17-22% annual employee departure rate since 2017 further exacerbate the issue. The County has negotiated labor agreements with cost increases, and a 7% market adjustment was adopted, along with a 2% COLA. An independent compensation study is underway to address market competitiveness, with $908,000 allocated for implementation based on its recommendations.

Inflation is affecting County budgets, leading to a 5% across-the-board increase in Services and Supplies for the Fiscal Year 2023-24 base budget compared to the previous fiscal year. Additionally, contract escalation and other known cost increases were factored in on top of the 5% base increase. Although the monthly inflation rate has slightly decreased, with a 4% increase in the consumer price index in May compared to the previous year (down from 4.9% in April), ongoing price hikes are creating budgetary pressure for departments. Consequently, department directors are closely monitoring costs. Fortunately, revenue sources like property taxes and consolidated taxes are currently rising, helping to offset these increased costs.

Central to effective growth and development management within a community is meticulous planning and the provision of necessary services and facilities to accommodate that growth. In Douglas County, these vital services and facilities encompass those managed by both the County itself and various public or private agencies. Among these, transportation, water and wastewater services, solid waste management, and floodplain management are the ones most significantly affected by growth. Notably, the County faces a considerable funding gap, with over $96 million in unfunded projects outlined in the five-year Capital Improvement Program. Addressing these projects will necessitate securing new or augmented revenue sources to ensure their timely completion. For a comprehensive exploration of the County's facilities and infrastructure requirements, please refer to the Douglas County Master Plan. In the current fiscal year's budget, allocations have been made for road maintenance, utility infrastructure, Muller Parkway, stormwater planning, and the design of a new Judicial Building.

Departments are cordial, yet inter-coordination and anti-siloing could be improved, suggesting that there is a need for more interdepartmental collaboration. Regular discussions revolving around strategic plans are recommended to foster this collaboration. The organization's internal culture has seen some shifts, receiving differing ratings between public perception and internal viewpoints.

Protection and defense of staff and county leadership during public meetings is raised as a concern.

Impact of Strategic Plan

Concise Overview

Proactive leadership that is less reactive, managing according to the plan, a safe community, and synergy among county departments and the community at-large.

Detailed Summary

The strategic plan envisions a community governed by proactive leadership, where decision-making is consistently aligned with well-defined, long-term objectives. The desired outcome is a leadership model that not only resolves existing challenges but also anticipates and prepares for future ones, thereby creating an environment of stability and foresight.

In terms of management, the aspiration is for all actions and decisions to be tightly aligned with the strategic plan. The objective is to eliminate ad-hoc and reactive decision-making in favor of a cohesive, planned approach. This will ensure streamlined governance, optimal resource allocation, and the achievement of long-term goals with higher efficiency. Identifying existing government codes that may need to be updated (i.e. Title 20: Consolidated Development Code).

For community safety, the plan aims to establish a comprehensive safety net around the residents through advanced communication strategies, robust public education programs, and effective emergency preparedness plans. The desired outcome is a well-informed and equipped community that is resilient in the face of emergencies and daily challenges alike.

Finally, the plan aims to foster synergy both among county departments and between the organization and the community at large. The expected outcome here is a culture of collaboration and mutual support, replacing current siloed operations. Through regular inter-departmental meetings and public forums, resources and information will flow more freely, promoting accelerated achievement of common goals.

In sum, the strategic plan aspires to bring about an organizational transformation that is proactive, well-planned, and collaborative, with a focus on ensuring a safe and resilient community. These outcomes will serve as the benchmark for the plan's success, guiding the organization towards a more effective and harmonious future.

County Priorities

Concise Overview

Public communication, budgeting to the strategic plan, workforce matters, emergency preparedness.

Detailed Summary

In light of the challenges and opportunities facing the county, the following suggested priorities aim to guide future strategic planning and policy development:

Enhance Public Communication: A suggestion for the county would be to place a heightened focus on transparent and regular communication with its residents. The objective is to build trust and ensure that the community is well-informed about county initiatives and decision-making processes. Enhancing public communication can lead to greater citizen engagement and a more participatory governance model.

Align Budget with Strategic Goals: It is advised that the county make a concerted effort to align its budgetary allocations with the broader objectives outlined in its strategic plan. This approach would allow for more efficient use of resources and ensure that financial investments are being directed towards achieving key strategic goals, ultimately providing a higher return on taxpayer investments.

Prioritize Workforce Management: Given that a skilled and motivated workforce is crucial for the county's success, it would be prudent to invest in employee well-being and professional development. This could entail offering competitive compensation packages, wellness programs, and career development opportunities. The focus should be on both attracting new talent, developing and retaining current employees.

Strengthen Emergency Preparedness: With the increasing importance of being prepared for unexpected events, from natural disasters to public health crises, the county would benefit from a comprehensive emergency preparedness plan. This should involve proactive identification of potential risks, the development of mitigation strategies, and action, thus ensuring the safety and well-being of its residents.

These recommendations aim to set the county on a path towards a more secure, transparent, and efficiently managed future.

Mission and Value Input

Concise Overview

Professionalism, critical thinking, learning, and compassion could be highlighted and/or added. Updates could be helpful.

Detailed Summary

"Trust" and "intentional planning" are seen as important factors that should be embedded into the organizational vision.

While individual departments are encouraged to develop their own strategic plans, there is also an identified need to understand what "living out the values" means in practice, with the aim of this understanding guiding staff evaluations. Additionally, incorporating "compassion" and "professionalism" into the organization's set of values is suggested as it has positive implications at all operational levels and culture. (Ex. Town of Aspen, CO).

In your opinion, what is the top strategic planning priority for Douglas County over the next five years?

Summary Observations

Affordable Housing and Development

Survey responses provided a mixed consensus regarding affordable housing and development growth in Douglas County. While some residents expressed concerns about overdevelopment, traffic congestion, and the impact of growth on the area's rural character, others mentioned the need for affordable housing to attract a diverse demographic and address workforce housing issues.

Therefore, it's fair to say that the community's views on this matter are not uniform. Some residents are in favor of addressing the housing affordability challenge, while others are concerned about the impact of rapid development on the area's infrastructure, water resources, and overall quality of life.

Economic Development

While some residents expressed support for economic development as a means of attracting businesses, creating jobs, and increasing revenue, others voiced concerns about overdevelopment, the impact on the area's rural character, and the need to preserve open spaces and agricultural land.

In summary, the community's views on economic development are diverse, with some residents in favor of it as a means to strengthen the local economy, and others raising concerns about potential negative consequences associated with excessive growth and development.

Education and Youth Development

Some residents may value education highly and prioritize it as a key factor in maintaining and enhancing the quality of life in the area. They may express support for initiatives that enhance educational opportunities, the quality of local schools, and access to educational resources.

However, other residents may have concerns or criticisms related to education in the county. These concerns could encompass areas such as funding for local schools, the curriculum, or the availability of educational facilities and resources.

It's essential to note that the diverse views on education within the community are likely to be shaped by various factors, including personal experiences, perspectives on the role of education, and specific issues related to the local education system.

Preserving Natural Beauty and Rural Character

The notion of preserving natural beauty and rural character was unanimous than most. Residents have a strong sentiment in favor of preserving, but divergence exists in whether to limit growth to protect these qualities. Key aspects include preservation of scenic vistas; preservation of agriculture land and supporting local farmers and ranchers to preserve County character; implementing conservation easements and Transfer of Development rights to protect natural landscapes; and the value of outdoor recreation such as expansion of hiking and bike trails.

Public Safety

Residents generally have a strong concern for public safety and feel that improvements and increased law enforcement presence are needed to address various safety issues in the county, especially in rural areas and on the roadways. Concerns include safety in rural areas; crime rates; fire safety and disaster preparedness; and safe roads and traffic control.

County Government and Finances

Residents of Douglas County have diverse opinions on government and finances. Some expressed concerns about fiscal responsibility, advocating for transparent budgeting and wise spending. Infrastructure investment, particularly in road maintenance and upgrades, was emphasized as crucial for safety and economic development. While some supported economic growth and affordable housing, others were cautious about their impact on finances and resources. Many residents are passionate about preserving open spaces, agricultural land, and the county's rural character, considering it integral to protecting its unique identity and natural beauty. The challenge lies in balancing these priorities while managing the county's finances in a responsible manner.

Summary Themes

Managing Growth and Infrastructure

By 2030, what does success for Douglas County look like?

Adequate Infrastructure and Services: Douglas County envisions a future where our community benefits from well-maintained roads, efficient stormwater management, and accessible healthcare facilities. We will have reliable public transit, a strong focus on public safety, and a commitment to maintain the clean and safe streets that our residents deserve.

- Better roads and drainage.
- Maintain well-maintained roads.
- Ensure clean and safe streets.
- Develop stormwater and road maintenance districts.
- Continue supporting the Senior Center and other community services.
- Efficient public transit system.
- Reliable public safety services.
- Accessible healthcare facilities.

Controlled Growth: Douglas County strikes the perfect balance between controlled growth and preservation. We limit housing projects, encourage development in designated areas, and protect open spaces and agricultural lands to maintain the small-town feel that we cherish while ensuring a sustainable future for all.

- Controlled growth with a balance between residential and commercial development.
- Limiting the number of housing projects.
- Encourage development in a designated industrial area.
- Controlled growth to prevent overpopulation.
- Restricting the number of vacation home rentals.
- Maintain the small town feel.
- Sustainable funding for infrastructure.
- Protect open space and agricultural lands.

Affordability and Housing: A Douglas County that offers affordable housing options for all residents. We aim to provide apartments and duplexes for families, establish workforce housing solutions, lower the cost of living, and ensure fair wages so that everyone can work and live in our community comfortably.

- Affordable housing options.
- Housing that is affordable for young families.
- Apartments and duplexes for families.
- Workforce housing options.
- Lower cost of living.
- Fair wages and livable salaries for residents.
- Lower property taxes and costs.

Safety and Low Crime: Safety is paramount. Our vision includes a community that is safe and crime-free, with a strong focus on supporting local law enforcement, first responders, and crime prevention. By maintaining a lower population density, we will reduce crime and ensure residents' well-being.

- A safe and crime-free community.
- The importance of safety for residents.
- Low crime rate.
- Safe schools and security for children.

- Support for local law enforcement and first responders.
- Lower population density to reduce crime.

Community Engagement and Services: Douglas County embraces a spirit of community engagement, inclusivity, and collaboration between all government levels. We aim to foster a youth-friendly environment, offer strong community services, and maintain excellent community maintenance, connective transit, and various activities for our residents.

- Collaboration between all levels of government.
- Inclusive community that respects diverse beliefs.
- Focus on education of the next generation.
- Youth-friendly environment.
- Strong community that works together.
- Community with excellent maintenance.

- Better sidewalks and bike paths.
- Solutions for traffic bottlenecks.
- Reliable water infrastructure.
- A modern general aviation airport.
- Alternative transportation options for residents.

Community Engagement and Cultural Development: A strong emphasis on cultural history, public art, and vibrant cultural activities. We will create a livelier nightlife, provide attractions and activities for both residents and visitors, build a diverse community, and boost the local cultural and artistic scene.

- Cultural history emphasis and tourism development.
- Public art and cultural activities.
- Livelier nightlife.
- Attractions and activities for both residents and visitors.
- A diverse community.
- Local events and tourism initiatives.
- Increase the community's cultural and artistic scene.

Stakeholder Focus Groups

Participants

In an effort to gain a deep understanding of Douglas County’s strategic issues to be addressed and opportunities to be considered during the strategic planning process, OnStrategy coordinated five forum groups. Each of the five groups consisted of members, professionals, and workers within the areas of scope. The five groups were as follows: Public Safety, Washoe Tribe of Nevada and California, Economic Vitality, Employers and Landowners, and Public Health.

Public Safety

Summary

The Public Safety Forum Group was comprised of multiple agencies. Communication system infrastructure was a large point of discussion. The group also addresses issues related to substance abuse and mental health, recognizing successful partnerships, and funding challenges.

Opportunities and challenges include the need for improved facilities, communication systems, triage services and treatment, and collaboration with federal agencies regarding emergency preparedness.

Economic Vitality

Summary

Participants underscored the significance of robust infrastructure, balanced land use policies, and fostering public-private partnerships as pillars for fostering business growth. Discussions further extended to the Douglas County strategic plan, with a focus on key areas like affordable housing, small business financing, flood mitigation, and educational advancement. The importance of effective leadership, employee satisfaction, and knowledge sharing was also highlighted as essential elements in addressing forthcoming challenges. The agenda for subsequent actions includes introductions, the compilation of vacancy data, support for businesses, and in-depth conversations on the hurdles faced by small enterprises and planned development.

Detailed Findings

6. Invest in beautifying the northern part of the county to attract more visitors and potential investors.
  7. Prioritize the maintenance of essential infrastructure, including roads, sewer plants, and connectivity, to support ongoing development.
  8. Ensure that local events continue to grow by addressing issues related to proximity to businesses and the availability of adequate parking.

Land Use Policy

- Regional Plan and Area Plans are great examples of public and private partnerships (Events Center, supporting micro transit, sustainability initiatives, etc.)
- Mixed use approach is embraced but jumping through the hoops is making it tough currently
- Big box development as a tax base. Needs support for retail development in these areas

1. Support public transportation options access businesses
2. Consider supporting master leases of apartment complexes (through partnership with the private sector to address affordable housing)
3. Support develop of extension of Vista Grande

Open Mic

1. TRPA support to implement the strategic plan, in partnership with the County and the whole region
  2. Affordable housing is critical to the success of the local economy
  3. Support programming for local development (education, resources, etc.)
  4. Support small businesses with programs such as financing, business toolkits, etc.
  5. Take action on the flooding from last March
  6. Market the strength of education in our district

Public Health

Summary

There are needs for additional public health service providers, funding for services, affordable housing, and improving the public health infrastructure for all ages, especially mental health. Collaboration among quad county areas, advocacy for those in need, and public education are seen as opportunities. Challenges include ample leadership and championing, a need for marketing and collaboration, and the importance of prioritizing preventive health measures.

Detailed Findings

- No suicide services in Carson, Yerington; no in-service
- Transiency of residents moving around Quad area and collaboration (i.e. letters of support, etc. To help with funding, etc.)

Community Support

- Professionals working are collaborative, supportive and helpful
- Can do mentality
- Tight knit of service providers (not county lead thus far)
- Food Closet
- Partnership Douglas County (PDC)

1. County support—grant writers, attracting services, etc. HELP beyond the acute care we're providing
2. County taking health as a top priority
3. Clarity and champion on where the funding and grants are and communicating (we need help beyond the crisis work; grant administrator communication and awareness; should be on the public health commission)//leadership structure and people and alignment
4. We are still rural; we need the funding too
5. Hire their own lobbyist, not a group
6. Transportation beyond DART and limitations to disability
7. Paid volunteer hour program for county staff (3 paid working days per year); encourages participation and synergy and care and awareness of what's out there; educates all involved
8. PDC can apply for new grants

Open Mic

- Health care impacts county experience, economic vitality, safe community, homelessness, etc.
- County needs to pay attention to other gov't entities and boards (i.e., school district)
- Political climate and commissioner's power over the county manager, staff, etc. ---it's a massive problem
- A retirement community now, no longer a family-driven community
- Bring together the lake and the county
- Public health is not just for the poor – remove stigma
- Location of services offered; near the schools, etc.

- DC needs a health and services office and coordination of funding with state; Carson City health serves all 4 counties

Public Input Sessions

To gather the input of residents on strategic topics, two public input workshops were facilitated by OnStrategy in partnership with Douglas County staff. Information regarding the sessions is listed below, and data collected during these sessions is synthesized in this section of the report.

Strategic questions were asked per theme (7), and responses were requested using two prompting questions:

1. What additional data or information is needed to answer this questions?
2. What possible solutions exist?

Meeting Outcomes

- Community engagement with our big, bold vision
- Solution strategic decisions, impacts, and questions by theme
- Community education on planning process

Possible Solutions

Public Workshop #1

Collaboration and Partnerships

- Emphasizing the importance of partnering with local organizations, such as the NNV Center for Independent Living, and working with various groups representing individuals with Disabilities, Access and Functional Needs (DAFN).

Seniors' Outreach and Support

- Establishing a phone tree system to ensure the timely communication and assistance for seniors during emergencies.
- Utilizing neighborhood watch programs and other community groups to engage with and support the senior population.

Communication and Information Dissemination

- The establishment of an emergency radio station to provide up-to-date information to the public during emergencies.

Grant Leveraging and Fuel Reduction

- Prioritizing efforts to secure grants for fuel reduction and management, with a call for the county to lead the way in pursuing such funding opportunities.

Certification and Training

- Encouraging certified membership and preparedness training to ensure that communities are well-equipped to respond to emergencies.

Public Workshop #2

Traffic Management and Safety

- Discuss measures like narrowing lanes to slow speeds, potentially with more curves.
- Prioritize cyclist safety with rumble strips and share the road signs.
- Focus on maintaining four lanes for both daily response and evacuation needs.
- Consider improved traffic flow for events at the events center and the casino corridor.
- Implement more lighting around the events center for safety.
- Offer free off-site parking and shuttle services for events.

Emergency Response and Evacuation Planning

- Advocate for local control in determining evacuation orders.
- Incorporate US 50 into Hazard Mitigation Plans (HMP) and Emergency Operation Plans (EOP) as an evacuation route while maintaining four lanes.
- Collaborate with the Fire Department on evacuation planning.
- Stress the importance of maintaining roadway space for evacuation during emergencies.

Collaboration with NDOT and Public Engagement

- Develop a better relationship with NDOT to address local concerns and preferences.
- Encourage NDOT to survey Douglas County residents regularly.
- Request NDOT to run a simulation on lane reductions to assess their impact.
- Challenge the validity of NDOT surveys.

Community Engagement and Event Management

- Simplify Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) requirements.
- Discuss limitations on the number of people in the basin.
- Propose a change in Lake Tahoe's status to become a national park and fund infrastructure upgrades through entry fees.

Natural Environment

How might we preserve the County's natural resources, beauty, and open spaces?

Possible Solutions

Public Workshop #1

Open Space and Conservation

- Advocating for open space preservation through measures such as a 1/4 cent sales tax for conservation easements.
- Emphasizing the importance of managing, listing, and funding open spaces and conservation efforts.
- Preservation of floodplains as part of open space conservation.

Soaring and Recreational Opportunities

- Capitalizing on the ideal soaring conditions in Minden and renewing soaring clubs to attract glider enthusiasts.
- Promoting Minden as a renowned destination for soaring activities.

Natural Beauty and Environmental Considerations
